

where we've been...

EMBERS Catholic Club by Kirsty

A rare family dinner outing was a relaxed and delicious night out. We headed to Embers Charcoal Kitchen. It has been a while since Mark and I visited the Campbelltown Catholic Club together and we were amazed at how different it all looked.

We both ordered from the slow cooked barbecued meats section. I ordered the Marinated Chargrilled Chicken and Mark ordered the Wagyu Beef Brisket. We ordered two year old Brinley a 'Lil' Tuckers' meal box with cheese-burger and chips.

Both the mains came with chips and coleslaw. My meat expert hubby said he could tell his Brisket was good quality meat. I enjoyed the chunky chips and chimichurri on my chicken for something different. Brinley's meal was huge and would suit older kids. She loved it all and even though she was full still managed to have room for the scoop of vanilla ice cream that was included with the meal box. Yes amazing value!

I was the same, full from my main but I was intrigued by the dessert 'burgers'. Mark was full too I begged him to share a dessert with me. "Come on it's my job!" I insisted.

We opted for the Salted Caramel burger with Snickers ice cream and salted caramel sauce. I'm a dessert girl and wow it was delicious. I actually don't know what the 'burger' was made of. It tasted like a crispy donut and in combo with the ice cream and caramel sauce it was sublime. Next time just two desserts!
