

where we've been...

BEP BE MAP Camden by Nicci

tastier!

When deciding on where to eat Asian food I always take note of how many Asian folk are dining there, or in general how full it is. I've eaten plenty of Vietnamese food in my day and I can say that the dishes and choices at Bep be Map are just as good as any inner West or city Vietnamese restaurant.

A lot of locals have been crying out for Vietnamese and we are lucky to have this lovely family enter Camden to cook for us. You must book! I've turned up a couple of times and had to leave as the small, friendly space has been jam packed.

Street Food jumped out on the menu straight away so we ordered rice paper rolls and mini savoury pancakes (prawn pork and coconut milk), both excellent choices. Our chosen mains were Green Papaya, Pork and Prawn Salad, Wagyu Shaking Beef with Yellow Rice and a Chicken Curry with roasted carrots and sweet potato. We really wanted to sample dishes we wouldn't usually go for. All three dishes were so fresh, fragrant and delicious, we cleared the plates. We sipped on some iced tea that night as it was warm and we needed a cooling contrast.

No room for fried icecream. Whaaaaah! Next time we will polish some off for sure. Bep Be Map is authentic and offers a simple and varied menu for lunch and dinner. We are really lucky that more and more ethnic cuisines are being born and raised in our town. Support them Camden, Bep Be Map has certainly made Murray Street a whole lot